Skyler Reed Bares Her Soul In New Single, "Second Guessing"

From Atlanta's vibrant music scene, R&B/Soul artist and passionate singer-songwriter Skyler Reed delivers a heartfelt new single and music video titled "Second Guessing."

This classically trained vocalist has been making waves in ATL with her powerful performances and soulful sound. Inspired by greats like Whitney Houston and Aaliyah, Skyler blends her classical background with modern R&B to create a unique musical style of her own.

In her latest track, "Second Guessing," Skyler opens up about love's uncertainties in a way that hits home. The song's music video peeks into those realities in a deeply relatable way, often resulting in some needed solo introspection and wondering where things went wrong.

Expanding on "Second Guessing," this lush R&B song hits us with a relatable concept from the jump. While the clean production bestows hefty amounts of good, passionate vibes, Skyler Reed joins the party to unleash her inner thoughts and feelings in the most sophisticated, stunning way possible. She wastes no time confessing that she might have said the wrong things, was too pressing, and second-guessed herself regarding the four-letter L word.

The song's music video is another intriguing factor. While it starts with Skyler strutting the city streets dressed to the nines, she heads back home to ponder, question, and reflect on where things went wrong. From overlooking the city to pouring a glass of wine and spinning into chaos, Skyler Reed perfectly visualizes those rocky situations in a deeply relatable, engaging way.

Experience the soul-stirring sounds of Skyler Reed's new single "Second Guessing," now available on all digital streaming platforms.
