The Atlanta based songstress has released her second music video from her EP, "Are We There Yet."

The music video was shot and directed by Sebastian Francis. He created moods to portray the story of a lonely heart. The opening scene is similar to what was the root of the conception for this song. The intimacy of the lyrics coincides with affectionate moments in the video.

"Don't Disappear" was written from a vulnerable place, a place of reminiscence and worry. No one fathoms losing a loved one or someone close to them. This song speaks to those in the phase of waiting, in the time of uncertainty. With contributions from Jessica Lloyce and John Scherer, the production was enhanced immensely. There's a complete musical expression for the raw emotion spoken with each lyric.
